Rationale: Jellyfish are an integral part of the oceanic ecosystem. It has this unique lifecycle where it sinks to the bottom of the ocean floor after death, and then its cells regenerate to form polyps from which a new jellyfish rises again, thus making them immortal. This phenomenon is quite similar to the mythical creature phoenix, which is born again from its own ashes.

While jellyfish are generally transparent blobs, here I have tried to capture the mythical correlation by using phoenixesque colours and bold strokes. Along with that, I have also portrayed the vibrant nature of the aquatic ecosystem where all the different species of jellyfish thrive.

Rationale: Desert safari is one of the most sought after tourist activities in Dubai. Everyone visiting the country wants to experience that. And one of the most exciting parts of that experience is the camel ride.

The camel handlers try their best to make the camels look as beautiful as possible. A common accessory in the ensemble is the drape which they put on a camel. The designs, forms and colors involved are extraordinary. They all have thread works which display the expertise of the traditional craftsmen.

So I wanted to capture that essence with bold strokes, bright colors, graphical forms by using needles and threads to make it look extra realistic. It is my humble attempt to do justice to the beauty of the ship of the desert.
